

● University Membership

The University Membership program connects colleges and universities with the Brooklyn Museum's vast educational and cultural resources and provides vital operating support that helps to create inspiring encounters with art that expand the ways we see ourselves, the world, and its possibilities.

Participating institutions receive complimentary admission for all students, faculty, and staff, as well as unparalleled opportunities for exclusive access to the Museum's encyclopedic collection and library resources.

Opportunities to Collaborate

University Membership

At the Brooklyn Museum, education is in our DNA. Our world-class art historians, curators, conservators, designers, archivists, and educators are always happy to share their knowledge and welcome the opportunity to collaborate with your students and faculty on special projects or initiatives. Our collections and galleries are always available to University Members as a resource for classes and to augment coursework.

Brooklyn Museum

Many Histories, Shared Future

The Brooklyn Museum is one of the oldest and largest art museums in the United States—our roots date back to 1825—with a comprehensive art collection that spans the globe and 5,500 years of civilization. Located in central Brooklyn, we are pleased to serve a richly diverse local community through an expanded vision for special exhibitions, education, and public programming. As our audiences and acclaim grow locally and internationally, we will always be your “neighborhood” museum as well as a global powerhouse.

The Brooklyn Museum is poised to be a new model for what an encyclopedic art museum can be—and the profound impact it can have on its community. Join us as we prepare to celebrate the Brooklyn Museum’s bicentennial in 2025, and help propel our beloved institution into its third century.
