Many Histories, A Shared Future

The Brooklyn Museum is one of the oldest and largest art museums in the United States—our roots date back to 1825—with a comprehensive art collection that spans the globe and 5,500 years of civilization. Located in central Brooklyn, we are pleased to serve a richly diverse local community through an expanded vision for special exhibitions, education, and public programming. As our audiences and acclaim grow locally and internationally, we will always be your “neighborhood” museum as well as a global powerhouse.

The Brooklyn Museum is poised to be a new model for what an encyclopedic art museum can be—and the profound impact it can have on its community. Join us as we prepare to celebrate the Brooklyn Museum's bicentennial in 2025, and help propel our beloved institution into its third century.
